Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years
Is hanging breathless on thy fate!

FOREWARD

We, the Seniors of 1937, realize that, as the sand trickles slowly through the hour glass of time, the high school life and activities, so vivid and real now, will be but shadows of the past. It seems that we will never forget our classmates and friends --- but time dulls recollections. Therefore, we have worked diligently to prepare this, the first volume of the "Spotlight of 1937" in order that the happiest days of our lives will not be forgotten. We sincerely hope that this "Spotlight of 1937" will throw forth beams of recollections when the activities of the "Class of 1937" are but a memory. We leave this, the "Spotlight of 1937" as a challenge to other classes of Lucerne High to continue the work that we have begun.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Twelve years ago in the fall of 1925 twenty-two little boys and girls dressed in their best with shining faces trooped through the front door way of the Lucerne School. Some clutching the hand of a big brother or sister, none too pleased with the unavoidable attachment, were quite happy while others holding to mamma's skirts were quite shy, for the experience was far from usual. These were: Fred Beckman, Keith Beckman, Junior Buttice, Carl Baker, Jack Cotner, Rosemary Gallion, Perry Gibson, Nanabelle Howell, Mary Alice Hendee, Joseph Herd, Eugene Jones, Berniece Kuhns, Francis Morphet, Elma Pinder, Ruth Patterson, Herbert Rance, Mary Jane Roemer, Catherine Remley, Edna Roberson, Frances Selders, and Richard Winn.

Joseph Herd wanted to be "teacher's pet," so he rattled the first week on some girls who got off the sidewalk into the mud.

In our second grade half of the class stayed in Miss Marie's room and the other half went across the hall into Miss Peckham's room. This year we lost six; these being Berniece Kuhns, Fred Beckman, Keith Beckman, Rosemary Gallion, Eugene Jones and Perry Gibson; but we gained Mildred Wilson.

In the third grade we gained four: Jason Taylor, Lester Denny, Richard Howell, and Clara Buttice. In the fourth, three joined our group: Winnie Crawford, Wilmer Bechdel, and Edgar Jones. This year we had our toughest teacher, Miss McDonald, who retained four of us. At the end of the year Elma Pinder left us to attend school in Logansport, but returned after one year's absence.

In the fifth year our number was again divided half were in Miss Barrett's room and the other half in Mr. Jones's, while the next year we were united and had Mr. Jones for teacher. Ruth Patterson insisted upon chewing gum against Mr. Jones's imperatives, so as a result she received two paddings. Evidently it didn't do much good, for she still has the habit.

Robert Wilson and Leroy Rushing joined us in the sixth grade--and remained with us the next six years.

All of us looked forward to the seventh year. What a thrill it would be to be upstairs! Mr. Muncie was the principal. Hazel Wilson from Grass Creek joined our group and was chosen to represent us at the county spelling contest. The next year seven of our number left us.

During the ninth year Frances Sellers and Joseph Herd were awarded the American Legion medals. Hazel Wilson and Edna Robertson entered the county Latin, and the district algebra contests. Later Edna entered the county spelling contest, the third she had participated in during the year, and was victorious. She then thoroughly believed in the old saying, "The third time is the charm." Alone Swingle enrolled in our class this year.

We looked forward with great anticipation toward the tenth year. For then we could initiate the freshmen, and pass on what we had taken the year before. It must have been somewhat severe, for one of their number fainted. This took some pep from the rest, although Mr. Hart, our sponsor, assured us it wasn't because of severe treatment, merely fear. We also had a difficult time this year, for we took commercial arithmetic with the seniors. All but Edna and Hazel had some difficulties in keeping abreast with them for, they really had a scholastic reputation. (Hazel Wilson had to drop out of our class this year because of illness.) Ethel Pfeiffer and Maurice Nickels joined us this year only to leave us the next.

The main events during our junior year were our junior play, "Huckleberry Finn," presented on Wednesday night, November 13, 1936, and the junior-senior banquet, held on the night of April 14, 1936, at the Barnes Hotel. After this all enjoyed a theater party, "Message to Garcia, at the Logan. (Mr. Kitchel, our sponsor, and Mr. Armstrong, director of our play, were glad when the term ended.)

In the senior year we gained our sheik, Paul Jacoby, but lost our heart-breaker, Mildred

Wilson, who was recently married.

Of the twenty-two who started to school only eight finished. During the twelve years only four who had joined us remained. Although we can't boast of a large number, we can always say, "Little but mighty".

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the Seniors of Lucerne High School, do bequeath our ability of having a good time to our fellow classmates and student teachers.

I, Joseph Gates Herd, do bequeath my protruding ears to Mr. Kitchel to help him in the teaching of sound in Physics.

I, Frances Belders, do bequeath my glasses to Edmund Roemer so he can get his book reports in on time.

I, Catherine Remley, do bequeath my ability to talk in Mr. Kitchel's class to Jeanette Leedy.

I, Margaret Ruth Patterson, do bequeath my wad of chewing gum to Dal Maynew.

I, Leroy Fushing, do bequeath my tall, slim figure to Eugene Hicks.

I, Edna Roberson, do bequeath my natural make-up to Jeanette Leedy so she won't have to buy so much cosmetics.

I, Richard Winn, do bequeath my manly charm to Carl Hassett to win Mabel Deek's affection.

I, Mary Jane Roemer, do bequeath my privilege to talk in the assembly without permission of Mr. Kitchel, to Pearl James and Myrtle Overmyer.

I, Robert Wilson, do bequeath my power of forgetfulness to Mr. Smith so he can give everyone an "A" in citizenship.

I, Alene Swindle, do bequeath my red hair to Mr. Kitchel to match his red suspenders.

I, Paul Jacoby, do bequeath my two sweat-shirts to Dal Maynew and my 'dignified' personality to "Freeze-ies, Fool-ies, and Run Reed".

I, Elma Kinder, do bequeath my quiet disposition to Martha Winn and love for the boys to Mabel Deek.

"THE MYSTERIOUS MRS. UPDYKE"

The Mysterious Mrs. Updyke, a comedy in three acts, was presented by the senior class April 8, 1937 to a capacity house.

The widow of a rich man, Jasper Updyke, invited his expectant relatives to visit her beautiful home, but on their arrival they found that she had mysteriously disappeared.

Comedy, romance, and drama entered into their strenuous efforts to locate the lady who finally turned up to supply a delightful surprise at the end of the play.

SENIOR CLASS DAY

On senior day, April 16, 1937, the seniors came to school dressed as on the first day of school, twelve years ago.

The program consisted of a speech, "Senior Class Day", by Joe Herd, "Welcome" by Catharine Remley, a saxophone solo by Frances Selders, a poem, "Well-Wishes", by Alene Swingle, and a play entitled, "Way Back When". The senior sextette composed of Paul Jacoby, Joe Herd, Dick Winn, Elma Pinder, Edna Roberson, and Frances Selders sang "School Days", and Robert Wilson and Frances Selders sang "Home on the Range" accompanied by Ruth Patterson on the guitar. The class history was read by Mary Jane Roemer, the prophecy by a junior, Helen Noel, and the class will by Robert Wilson.

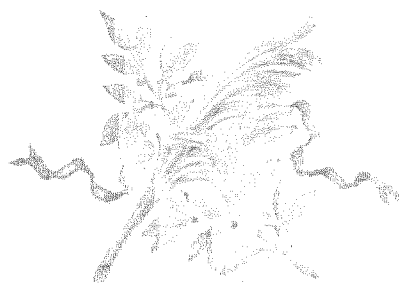

Medals for the school year 1936-37 were awarded as follows:

Name of Medal	Person Receiving
1. Accomplishment
2. Athletic
3. Citizenship (Girl)
4. Citizenship (Boy)
5. Scholarship (Senior)
6. Scholarship (School)
7. Legion Award (9th. Boy)
8. Merit Award (9th. Girl)
9. Activities

The annuals, "The Spotlight of 1937", were distributed.

Joe Herd, the class president, presented a Hectograph Machine to the school as a gift of the class of 1937. Leroy Rushing presented Miss Hall a gift for coaching the senior play.

The seniors spent the afternoon at Rochester.

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY
The Fixer

Cast of Characters:

John Cokain, as Waldo Powers; Dal
Waynew, as Willie B. Repaid; Helen Noel, as Marigold Maine; Martha Winn, as Mrs. Mona Maine; Roy Jones, as Gabriel Snow; Pearl James,
as Cleopatra Johnson; Donald Burrough, as Dr.
Robin Kilhem; Gail Foutz, as Madame Venus;
Jeanette Leedy, as Ethelyne Cartright; J. W.
Gates, as "The Great Cologne"; Virginia Fultz, as Mrs. Glenda Gosnell; Berniece Roberson, as Camille Crow; Robert Elkins, as Hinkle Richer;
Mable Deck, as Mrs. Polly Royce; and Annabelle
Faylor, as Ruth Royce.
Place: "The Penn Marr Hotel"

Act I

Mrs. Maine wants her daughter, Marigold, to marry Hinkle Richer, a millionaire. However Marigold and Waldo Powers have already been married secretly. Ethelyne Cartright arrives at the hotel with Mrs. Gosnell's baby boy, who has been threatened to be kidnapped. Willie B.
Repaid tries to fix things for Waldo and instead, complicates matters when he registers
Ethelyne as Mrs. Waldo Powers.

Act II

Willie again tries to fix things for Waldo so he borrows $100 from his assumed second wife Ethelyne for Waldo to go on a honeymoon with his first wife, Marigold. Madame Venus overhears the plans and reports it to Mrs. Maine. Dr. Robin Kilhem comes to the hotel and is suspected by Willie as the kidnapper. To fix things he moves the Gosnell baby to his room. Hinkle Richer, who is in love with Ethelyne, arrives at the hotel.

Act III

Hinkle has ordered Ethelyne's engagement ring when he finds out that she is already married. Mrs. Polly Royce, Ruth Royce, and Camille Crow arrive at hotel. "The Great Cologne", the real kidnapper, is captured by Willie. Mrs. Gosnell returns to the hotel and finds her baby safe.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The junior-senior reception was held on April 14, 1937, at the Barnes Hotel, Logansport.

A color scheme of red and white, the senior class colors, was carried out in the table decorations. The "Last Round Up" was the theme of the toasts.

Small cowboys were given as favors.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

Sitting by the fireplace, watching the flames leap around the old andirons, and listening to the rain drops pattering on the window pane, we sat wondering what our seniors of 1937 would be doing twenty-five years hence. Someone suggested that we get out the old crystal ball hidden away for years in a small nook of the fire-place and covered with dust and cobwebs but somewhat awed by the mystery surrounding it, no one moved until one bolder than the rest produced the weird object. All immediately circled around and gazed intently down into its very depth. Gradually 1962 loomed before our eyes and as we watch in awe, not daring to motion, we saw our seniors presented as follows:

First we see Alene Swingle. Of all of the graduating class of 1937, Alene has reached the place of the late Amelia Earhart and has become the world's greatest flyer. On April 10, 1962 Alene expects to attempt an airplane flight to Mars. She is assured that she will arrive there safely, but since there are no gas stations there she wishes that she may return to America.

Adjusting the crystal slightly Catherine Remley appears. After giving up all hope of ever winning Dick Winn's heart after Jeanette Leedy came to town, she has finally married the star basket-ball player of the Lucerne Independent team. They now reside on a small farm north of Lucerne. While Merle, although crippled with rheumatism, is playing splendid basket-ball, Catherine is out on the floor teaching little Junior how to lead yells.

Before we become adjusted to these sudden changes there is Paul Jacoby. His greatest ambition, to make the head lines, has at last been realized. In the bold type headlines of the "Indianapolis News," we see where Paul and Annabelle Faylor were in an auto collision at the corner of Pennsylvania and Indiana avenue. The car owned by F.F. Reed collided with one of the plate glass windows of the Ayres Department Store. It has been rumored that Mr. Jacoby and

Mrs. Taylor, the gay divorcee of Professor Richard Taylor of Central Normal College, went on their way to the office of the Justice of the Peace when the accident occurred.

Robert Wilson, alias "Chicken," is spending his life on his chicken ranch southwest of Lucerne. He has a growing business. Gail Potts has been his faithful house-keeper and "egg-gatherer" down through the years.

Now Leroy Rushing at the ripe old age of 45 has finally talked Ruth Patterson, who has been signed up with the New York Giants for several years, into retiring from professional baseball and settling down with him. He is running the Lease's Corner Grocery Company and Roxine Parlors. Ruth, for the want of an active life, has started a school for training girls in the art of right and left curve-balls. She has an ever increasing enrollment. All seven of Mrs. Mildred Wilson Jones's girls--Elsie, Mabel, Katie, Susan, Sophie, Matilda, and Flossie entered recently.

Joe Herd has finally settled down as General Manager of the Lucerne Super Service Station at the intersection of Roads 16-17 west of Lucerne. He finally decided upon this position after spending three years of his life barnstorming in the side show of a circus as elephant boy.

To see Edna Roberson as a pale-faced, spectacled, slender school teacher. She now holds a position in the Lucerne High School pounding Latin into the ivory and wooden heads which belong to the children of her former schoolmates. As it gaze into heaven's magic ball we see something that looks very much like a budding romance between Edna and Don Hart, Professor of Mathematics, who also teaches in Lucerne School, the son of "our" Mathematics teacher, William Hart.

Edna Pinder during these twenty-five years has grown into a lovely maidenly woman. She has a thriving business in Lucerne. Edna is the proprietor of "Pinder's Select Boarding House." Among her patrons are Edna Roberson and Professor Hart. Her favorite learner is Joe Herd, the bachelor. Edna has a vision of Joe and she spending the rest of their life together.

Every actor in Hollywood is trying to steal the heart of the most charming and graceful actress in Hollywood. She is none other than one of our beloved schoolmates, Mary Jane Roemer. Her next production, in which she has the lead is "Gold Diggers of 1933." Mary Jane is a ravishing platinum blonde. She has a beautiful boyish bob, and her figure has turned all of the women in America green with envy.

We see Jeanette and Richard Winn residing on a farm north of the Lucerne Pickle Factory. Their son, Richard Eddie Teddy Winn, is making slow progress on L. E. S. basket-ball team. This is due to a sprained ankle which seems to be a family weakness. Richard Eddie is following the tradition of his forefathers by delivering milk every morning before school.

Our charming Frances Selders has taken up a professional life. She has become another Dorothy Dix, and gives "Hints to the Love Lorn," through different newspapers and magazines. But the shocking part of the whole affair is that she, herself, has never married. Her trousseau has been ready for high on to twenty years waiting for one of her many beaux to say the word. Her large list of boy friends is still increasing but

We continued to gaze, but all grew dim. Although we turned the magic ball again and again, we could see no more.

FRESHMEN INITIATION PARTY

The members of the Sophomore class entertained the members of the Freshmen class at an initiation party on October 9, 1936 at Lucerne School. The gymnasium and tables were decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en spirit.

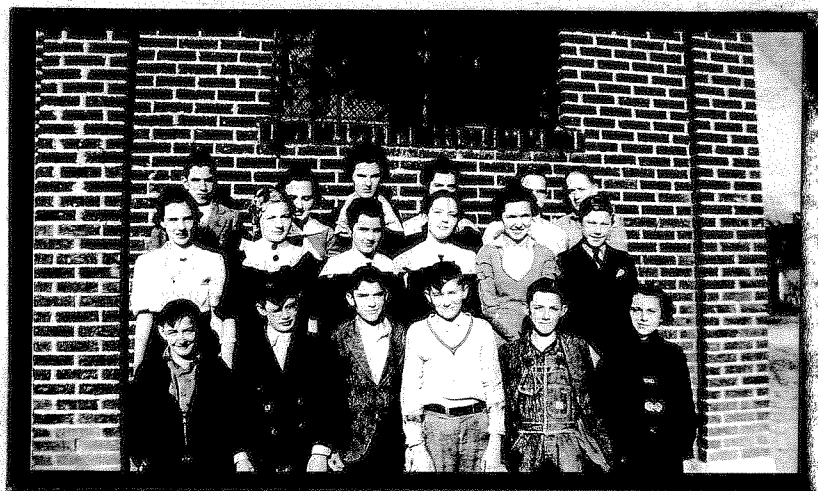

The Freshmen much to their chagrin joined in the activities of "Cutting Hair", "Hatching an Egg", "Rolling Peanuts", and "The Doings of the Fly Family".

After these feats were performed to the satisfaction of the overly critical Sophomores the following guests were served: Raymond Brown, Helen Clary, Mary Clary, Alice Crane, George Elliott, Martha Jane Fultz, Elizabeth Gates, Ralph James, Harry MacNaught, Elizabeth Ann Roemer, Margaret Ann Montgomery, Donnell Morphet, Edgar Overmyer, Donald Reason, Mary Madelyne Remley, Edmund Roemer, James Samsel, Eva Schoetz, Archie Watts, Harold Wilson, Miss Lena Finton, Miss Hildreth Hall, and Mr. C. G. Smith.

Then the Freshmen were told, "No more pranks", so they relaxed and joined wholeheartedly in a number of group games.

BASKETBALL

"Basketball Practice Tonight" placed on the board by Cosch Kitchel last fall brought the desired results. Twenty-two smiling faces greeted him the first evening. None retired. Although they had neither height nor weight, they had speed. The only two seniors on the squad were Dick Winn and Joe Herd. Joe was chosen captain. Although we lost a large per cent of games, our standing in sportsmanship was very high.

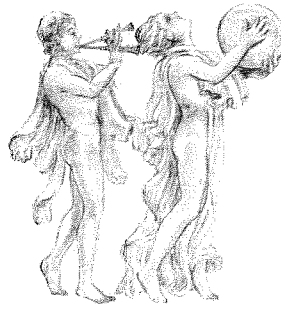

Catharine Remley and Virginia Winn, our cheer leaders, held a pep session before each game.

ACTIVITIES

Volley Ball

In the fall when the gymnasium was opened for noon day activities, the time for the use of it was divided equally between the high school boys and girls.

The girls wishing to play at noon were divided into three teams with Frances Selders, Ruth Patterson, and Martha Winn as captains. They played a Round Robin tourney of three rounds. Ruth Patterson's team was victorious.

The boys who wished to take part in the activities were divided into four teams with Joe Herd, Roy Jones, Donald Burrough, and John Weaver as captains. Joe Herd's team was the champion.

A class tourney was held by both the boys and girls. The freshmen class won the girl's tourney by defeating the Juniors 18 to 26. With only four players the Senior boys defeated the Junior boys, in the final game of the tourney by a score of 15 to 12.

HOME ROOM

This year for the first time in its history, Lucerne High School has had what is known as "Home Room Period". Every Friday a period is given for the class to meet with its sponsor in its home room. A regular class meeting is held at the first of the period and all business pertaining to the class is discussed. Afterward the students enjoy games and contests. Several of the classes have presented programs before the assembly during the home room periods.

ANNUAL HALLOWEEN CARNIVAL

Confetti, toy balloons, canes, singing birds, horns etc. reigned supreme at our annual Halloween Carnival held in the gymnasium October 30. The old as well as the young joined with great gusto in the activities sponsored by the various classes.

The members of the senior class presented a one act comedy, "Love in Bloom" to an overflowing auditorium, and the members of the junior class put every one in a good humor by serving well prepared refreshments. The Bingo game tended to keep the sophomores busy and out of mischief. To add spice to the fun, the freshmen sponsored a moving picture program and a popularity contest which was won by Mary Madalynne Remley, one of their own group. The seventh and eighth grade girls showed much talent in the art of salesmanship with their novelty stand, fish pond and pop corns sales; while the boys of these grades had much fun at their "Nigger Baby Ball Throwing Booth".

Our merchants cooperated splendidly in making this event a success with their most generous gift which made possible the awarding of several prizes; one for each of the best of several representation costumes. At 10 P.M. a prize was given to the person holding the lucky ticket stub, as each paid admission at the door or to the senior play received a stub for the drawing.

Total receipts were about $95.00 with expenses of $55.00. The net profits were placed in a fund for the purchases of a time clock for the school.

GRADE OPERETTA

The Christmas operetta, "The Lost Doll", was presented on the evening of December 23, 1936 by the children of the lower grades under the direction of Miss Blackketter and their respective teachers.

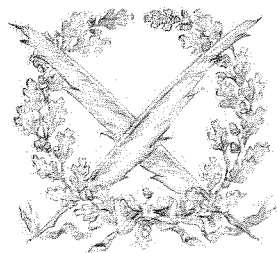

The children portrayed toy land in a toy shop in which Marcia Dillman, a modern young mother, and Betty Herd, her daughter, were assisted in their shopping by Pauline Ferguson, the personal shopper. She was aided by other boys and girls representing the wares of her shop: the Blocks, Bells, Bears, Peppermint Canes, Candles, Christmas Trees, Jigging Sambos, and Dolls.

HIGH SCHOOL OPERETTA

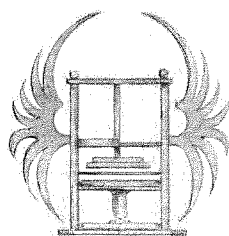

The operetta, "Hearts and Blossoms", directed by Miss Blackketter, was given in the high school auditorium Wednesday evening, Mar. 3.

The cast included:

Frances Selders, as Mrs. Manning, an imposing widow with a particular weakness for dreams. Mary Lou Jones, as Marie Manning, young, romantic and in love with Jerry Higgins. Jean Ferguson, as June Manning, younger sister of Marie, and in love with Phillip Brandon. John Cokain, as Matthew Brandon, an absent-minded man and old sweetheart of Mrs. Manning. Roy Jones, as Phillip Brandon, nephew of Matthew Brandon. Dal Mayhew, as Jerry Higgins, a poor but promising young lawyer with bright ideas. Edna Roberson, as Malindy, a young lady of color, and Paul Jacoby, as Samson, the colored bell boy at the hotel. Joe Herd, Dick Winn, Virginia Winn, and Frances March, as Bruce, Bob, Eileen, and Betty respectively, who are guests at the hotel. A dancing chorus composed of seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth grade girls and the high school singing chorus accompanied by Gail Foutz, pianist, completed the cast.
