Dedication

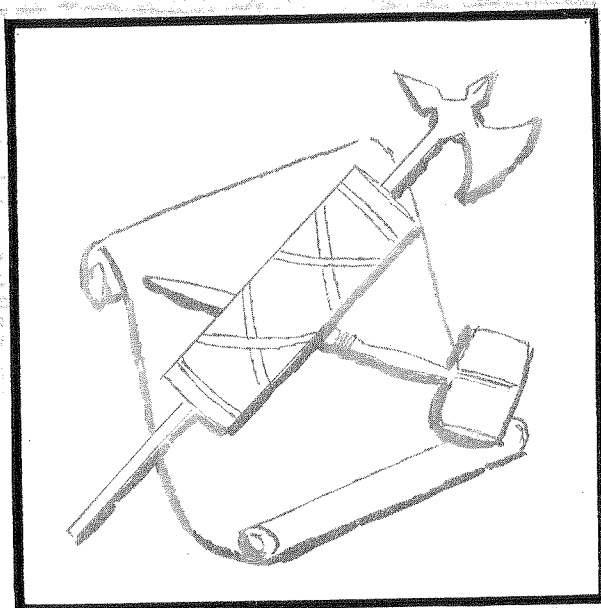

Dedication

To you, Mr. Moss, we dedicate this year
Our book, for you have always brought us cheer,
A helping hand, a smile, a word so kind.
Our foolishness you did not seem to mind.
Although our high school days are through,
We'll always value our friendship with you.

Class History

In the fall of 1946, fifteen starry-eyed little satellites started out on their space cruise. Their first stop was Mrs. Powlen's first grade. There Robert Adams, Catherine Barrett, Dale Bridge, Bonnie Burton, Judy Deck, Kay Haselby, Keith Leffert, Judy Michael, Carl Newell, Royce Tharp, Kay Vanata, Geneva Wallace, Muriel Way, Patty Wells, and John Lungred spent a year. As we zipped on to the second grade, we were without Judy Deck, Royce Tharp, Patty Wills, and John Lungred. During the second grade we picked up Shirley Brown, Bob Cantley, Pat Larrison, Sandra Way, Marlene Titus, John Russell, Joe Titus, Eva Wipperman, LeAnn Shafer, and Jimmy Roe, but we lost seven of our fellow satellites. They were Shirley Brown, Keith Leffert, Kay Vanata, Marlene Titus, John Russell, Joe Titus, and Jimmy Roe.

As another year approached, we found ourselves in the third grade. We were joined by Bill Rance and Janice Bridge, who had missed her rocket to the fourth grade. This year we lost Bob Cantley and Pat Larrison. The first stage of our space trip was advancing rather quickly--We were now in the fourth grade. The trip was now in full swing with Betty Adams, Catherine Barrett, Dale Bridge, Janice Bridge, Bonnie Burton, Kay Haselby, Judy Michael, Carl Newell, Bill Rance, LeAnn Shafer, Geneva Wallace, Muriel Way, Sandra Way, Trudie Greer, and Eva Wipperman as fellow travelers. These two years were supervised by Mrs. Winn.

Whizzing through the atmosphere, we decided to stop in on Mr. Jones and explore the fifth and sixth grades. In the fifth grade we lost Muriel Way and Jerry Owens, but we added Karlene Fry, Wilma Fairchild, and Bill Cunningham. The sixth grade found us becoming pretty smart. Our space trip was teaching us many interesting things. During this year we lost Betty Adams, Karlene Fry, Bill Hatt, and Sandra Odom.

As we zoomed to the seventh grade, we gained Darryl Myers, but Gloria Spencer and Sandra Way forgot to step aboard for the trip to the eighth grade. In the eighth grade we picked up Betty Purdue and Rosalie Unger.

As we neared our last plateau, the ninth grade, we gained Dave Young and lost Trudie Greer. Janice Bridge evidently preferred matrimony to space travel. Our space ship was climbing higher and higher. During our sophomore year Wilma Fairchild and Jim Leazenby joined a neighboring rocket flight. Eva Wipperman, like Janice, preferred matrimony. Only a few more feet to climb--we were juniors. This was the year of our Prom. All of us space travelers had stars in our eyes. We lost Rosalie Unger this year. Mr. and Mrs. Moss have been our flight directors all through high school.

Well, we've completed our flight--thirteen lucky seniors: Catherine Barrett, Dale Bridge, Bonnie Burton, Bill Cunningham, Kay Haselby, Judy Michael, Darryl Myers, Carl Newell, Betty Purdue, Bill Rance, LeAnn Shafer, Geneva Wallace, and Dave Young. But now, just as in our space travel, we are reaching out to better and higher goals.

Class Will

I, Catherine Barrett, will my government and history grades to my dear sister, Mary, so she may pass these subjects with flying colors and my unending school spirit to the junior class, who will need it after we seniors are gone.

I, Dale Bridge, will my following abilities: to play basketball to Chris Christiansen, to stay out late one night and get to school the next day to Sandy Grandstaff, to get a date to Art Newell, and to get along with the coach to Joe Waymire.

I, Bonnie Burton, do bequeath my height to Bill Marshall, so he may become the star basketball player and my straight, unruly hair to Rhoda Dodt, so she will have something to work at while she watches TV.

I, Bill Cunningham, will my ability to hold my temper in a basketball game to my brother, Ron, and to Rick Burrough my ability not to go steady after my first date with a girl.

I, Kay Haselby, will my ability to be seen and not heard to Dennis Gates, who just can't be quiet, and my place as popcorn popper at junior high games to Jim Robinson.

I, Judy Michael, will my entire Elvis Presley record collection to Sandy Young and Pat Gilman, knowing they will treasure it as I do, and my ability to chew gum while I sleep to Larry Rains and Tom Hilkert.

I, Darryl Myers, do will my chain of Banana Boats to Art Newell so that he may become an international banana king and my vast knowledge of scientific information to Chris, so he may become a world famous scientist.

I, Carl Newell, will to Tom Hilkert a year's supply of erasers, conveniently located in his desk, so he will not get his pants dirty crawling on the floor after one and my muscles to any underclassman who desires to equal my career in basketball and sports.

I, Betty Purdue, will my ability to control myself at the typewriter to Sandy Grandstaff, so that she won't throw her typewriter out the window and my close connections at Burnettsville to Alice Bruce, so she may meet a certain blond boy.

I, Bill Rance, will my sideburns to LaMar Graham, so he will have to fight to keep the girls away and my mustache to Tom Weaver, so he will look distinguished like Mr. Moss and me.

I, LeAnn Shafer, will my glasses to Mike Jones, so he can see the things around him more clearly and my privilege of owning a car, even though it is a Model A and runs only half the time, to Mike Crane, who is always hitching a ride.

I, Geneva Wallace, do bequeath my ability to play softball to Alice Bruce as a help in her latest project and my ability to wait to get married until I graduate to Sandy Young.

I, Dave Young, bequeath my ability to make Eagle to future Boy Scouts, if they are willing to work as hard for it as I did, and my ability as a catcher to the daringest of the underclassmen, along with my ability to dodge thrown bats, foul tips, etc. which come within inches of my head.

We, the seniors of 1958, leave the faculty the peace and quiet which has not been around here for the past twelve years, and to the entire school--we LEAVE!!

Prophecy

Now that space travel has ceased to be a perilous undertaking, I have for a long time intended to make a trip to the moon, but have put it off for one reason or another. When I saw the announcement that Professor Carl Newell and his faithful assistant, Bill Cunningham, were chartering another flight to the moon, I decided now was the time. Their beautiful red rocket is called the NEW-INGHAM '58 and is made from the motor of Bill's old Studebaker. My desire to be a member of this party increased when I learned that the former Kay Haselby, now a multimillionaire, had sent everyone diamond studded invitations for a reunion of the Class of '58 on this flight. Among the delights of the trip will be a game between the Lucerne Dodgers and the Moon Space-Trotters. The famous Dodgers had won the World Series this year, so they are going to travel to the Moon for the Universal Series. Their manager, Bill Rance, has gained world recognition for his vast knowledge of baseball.

Well, here we are boarding the rocket. Sitting in the front seat is the former Geneva Wallace, her husband, and their son, Bobby, Jr. Geneva and her husband own a large factory in New York. Who is the high-fashioned woman entering now? Of course, it's LeAnn Shafer, who is a fashion buyer from Hollywood. She is married to a very talented movie producer. Their beautiful daughter has been nominated for the Academy Award.

Listen to that racket! It's Judy Michael with her twenty trained poodles. Of course, she only trains poodles as a side-line, since she is busy with her interior decorating. She and her husband are in business together and have decorated the apartments of Robert Wagner, Elvis Presley, Nick Todd, and many other famous people.

Well, the rocket is loaded, and we are about to take off. At the wheel is Dave Young, who also races sports cars. His latest car is a Thunderbird with 620 horsepower. Betty Purdue, with her husband, a General in the U.S. Army, are also on board. And to think that he was only a Private while she was going with him in high school!

Landed, safe and sound! Greeting us is Dale Bridge, who came on another rocket. He never did trust Dave's driving. Dale is the pitcher for the Dodgers. In the box-seat is Darryl Myers with his six girl-friends. Darryl is surely slipping, because he is hardly ever seen with less than ten. Dale is caught trying to steal home, and is knocked on the head with a bat. "Is there a doctor in the house?" At this Nurse Burton comes flying with her little black bag and puts a bandage on poor Dale's head. Bonnie and her husband own a children's clinic in Philadelphia.

Catherine Barrett, an ardent Yankee fan, doesn't want to cheer for the Dodgers, so she retires to the space-ship to work out an assignment for her class. After all, being head professor of history at Purdue University, she hardly has any time to watch baseball games.

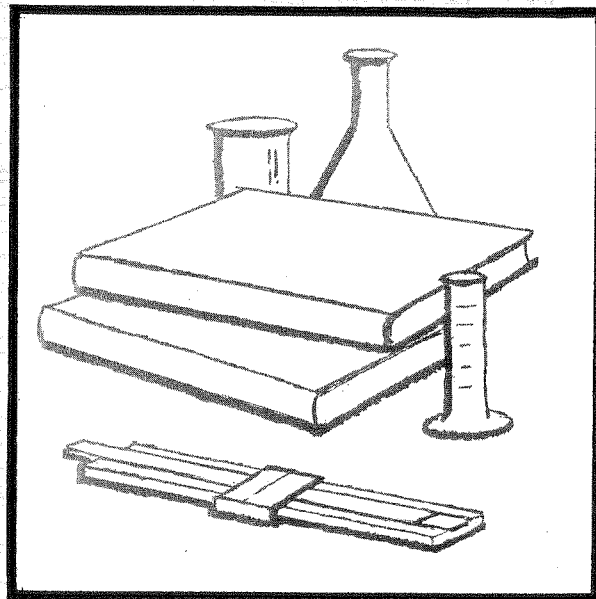

Well, the Dodgers win again!!

Judy announces that if we hurry home, she will entertain us with a dog-show.

Thanks, Kay, we all had a nice time.

Everyone is now boarding ship, and we are going "Back to Earth." Bye, now! Hope your class can have such an interesting reunion!

Plays

REST ASSURED

(Senior Class Play--The Heuer Publishing Co.)

Father cared for nothing but money, so he wouldn't let Mary become engaged to Joe Lanconi, whose papa was poor. In an argument over this Joe's papa, Luigi, got very angry. He had a bad heart, so he couldn't take it, fell over, was taken to the hospital, and was reported dead. But that didn't stop Luigi--he got permission to haunt Mr. Morlock. Lucifer himself got into the act, and things were getting pretty hectic for Mr. Morlock, when suddenly he awoke to find it all a dream. Needless to say, he was a reformed character for the rest of his life.
