DEDICATION

We, the senior class of 1959, hereby dedicate this yearbook to Mr. Charles Parkinson. The memory of his friendship and influence will remain in our hearts forever.

This record of our high school days--
Complete it we can not,
If we don't pause to give some praise
To one who helped a lot.

As junior sponsor, our friend came
Aiding in many ways,
With patience helped us reach our aim--
A trip of seven days.

He froze at turkey shoots with us
He helped us with our play,
Magazines, and Prom; he made no fuss,
Patient all the way.

So we dedicate our book to you,
As from the school we go,
We'll treasure your friendship, good and true,
Our thanks on you bestow.

Senior Class History

One bright, sunny morning in 1947 twenty alert little youngsters got their mothers out of bed early, washed their little faces, put on their best clothes, ate their breakfasts, and hurried out to the road. Why all the activity? The great moment had come! They were to begin that great adventure--going to school! With their little hearts thudding with excitement and their faces shining with joy, they climbed aboard their respective busses for their first journey to Lucerne School. Mrs. Powlen received them and made them feel at home immediately. There were Alice Bruce, Lona Bruce, John Burrough, Chris Christiansen, Judy Deck, Iranda Michael, Richard Minnear, Arthur Newell, James Robinson, Johnie Smith, Ruth Swank, Martha Watts, William Weaver, Irmadean Wilson, Jacquiline Titus, Clarence Russell, Dorothy Hess, Clarence Birnell, Ruth Strong, and Linda Hallen--all determined to master the mysteries of 'Readin', 'Ritin', and 'Rithmetic'. Mrs. Powlen gently led them to an understanding of these things, at the same time endeavoring to make the timid ones talk and the talkative ones be silent--at least part of the time. For two years she guided their work. The second year Richard Minnear, Johnie Smith, Ruth Swank, Martha Watts, Jacquiline Titus, Clarence Russell, Dorothy Hess, Clarence Birnell, and Linda Hallam left their class, but the class gained James Roberson, Fred Howard, Karen Freer, Richard Bresson, and Carolyn Jones. Then came the first big change--the move to another room!

Here Mrs. Leila Winn directed the little band of adventurers, now having lost Fred Howard, Karen Freer, and James Roberson, but having gained Jane Kobel, Michael Crane, Robert Jones, and Dennis Gates. Many new fields were opened for them to explore. They learned interesting things about the world in which they lived. They also became more expert at reading and writing, and they began to apply the arithmetic they had studied to more complicated situations. In the fourth grade their only loss was Robert Jones, but they gained Barbara Riengardt, Beverly Tabler, Larry Rains, and Ronnie Cunningham. Mrs. Winn continued to help them with their work as they became more and more at home in school.

So brave had they become by the time they moved into Mr. Charles Jones' room, they were scarcely alarmed at all. Ronald Bridge, Betty Hatt, Herbert Sibley, Royce Tharp, LaMar Graham, and Jenny Barnes joined the group, and Barbara Reingardt left them. Here again new interests claimed them. Some of the boys began the adventure of playing basketball, preparing for the demands to be made upon them in high school. "Casey" didn't have Mrs. Powlen's problem--none of them were very shy and quiet anymore, except Lona, but he did have some fun keeping them from venturing into too many experiments before they were ready! The personnel of the class in the sixth grade was changed by the loss of Betty Hatt, Herbert Sibley, Richard Bresson, and Beverly Tabler, and the addition of Carlton Thompson, Richard Wahl, and Patricia Gilman.

When Mr. Jones decided they were ready, up the stairs the intrepid travelers came, immediately making themselves known in the upper halls. Sometimes, perhaps, a little too well known, but that is the way of adventurers! They learned a little more of the fundamentals; they searched deeper into science and health fields; they were given previews of things to come in their high school years. They found reference books, magazines, and dictionaries in the back of the room and the library. They read about other adventurers in other fields. They had lost Richard Wahl, Royce Tharp, Jane Kobel, and Jenny Barnes and gained Philip Stark. Mr. James Woolsey was their sponsor in this most interesting year. This position of leader was taken over by Mr. Richard Rowe in the eighth year as the group lost Ronald Bridge and Philip Stark and gained Sandra Young.

A new challenge met the class in their freshman year. There was that great mystery, algebra, to be met and mastered. All the other subjects became more difficult. Maybe they were "green freshmen," but they were ready to learn. Carlton Thompson moved away and Sandra Grandstaff came to Lucerne that year. The sponsor was Mrs. Virginia Fickle.

Boldly they began their sophomore year with only two changes, the loss of Judy Deck and the addition of Suzie Zimmerman. Whenever they thought they had tried every phase of this adventure, new fields were opened for them. Mr. Calvin Kitchell was their sponsor.

As juniors they really thought they had the adventure won. Under Mr. Parkinson's leadership they conducted turkey shoots to make money for their senior trip. They became hillbillies for the Hallowe'en Festival in the one-act play, "Gomin' Round the Mountain." Their three-act play was "It Walks at Midnight." Their prom was held at Colonial Hotel in Rochester. Suzie Zimmerman and Irmadean Wilson dropped out this year, and Judy Rearick joined them.

The final year began with Judy Rearick and Ronnie Cunningham leaving them. Their play was "Here Comes Charlie." The graduating members of the class were Alice Bruce, Lona Bruce, Rick Burrough, Chris Christiansen, Michael Crane, Dennis Gates, Pat Gilman, LaMar Graham, Sandra Grandstaff, Arthur Newell, Larry Rains, Jim Robinson, Tom Weaver, and Sandra Young. Mr. and Mrs. Moss acted as their sponsors. They could hardly wait for the big moment of graduation. Now they began to realize the adventure of education was just begun. College called some, learning to become proficient in some field of work called others. The adventure of becoming educated they realized, is never completed as long as one is alive. They knew they would always look back with affection to the school where they first learned what an interesting adventure it could be!

Senior Class Prophecy

After traveling from planet to planet playing piano concerts for more than a year, I returned to the capital of the Earth, Lucerne, to prepare for a vacation in Florida. My new 88 Streamlined Jet got me there in a few minutes, and I registered at the Sea and Sand Hotel.

That evening I was dining on the terrace under the stars when suddenly I heard dreamy music floating on the air. That sweet voice could belong to no one but PAT GILMAN! I rushed into the room to hear the rest of the song. Pat saw me come in and came over to my table. I learned that she was also the owner and manager of the hotel. Of course, our thoughts drifted back to our happy school days at Lucerne High School. Pat told me what a few of her classmates are doing. LARRY RAINS, a professor at Purdue University, is a very happy family man with six little "Raindrops." ART NEWELL has become a prosperous New York business man.

While Pat and I were reminiscing, a dignified salesman walked over to us. The gentleman was none other than TOM WEAVER--his product, ladies' pink cigarettes. As we were talking to Tom, the orchestra furnished dinner music. Suddenly the spotlight turned on a trombone soloist. I almost dropped my fork--the trombonist was RICK BURROUGH. He was as handsome as ever, and Pat said he is not only the most sought-after bachelor in the United States but is also the President's personal lawyer. Now and then he drops in to play with the orchestra when he is on vacation in Florida. Pat asked us all to come to the lounge for coffee. Rick brought JIM ROBINSON, another vacationer. Jim, as Oscar award winner for the third time, is Hollywood's Glamour Boy and was to return to Hollywood soon to begin another picture.

Naturally, all of us tried to find out what the rest of the class of '59 is doing. We all knew that CHRIS CHRISTIANSEN is a very famous scientist, known around the world for his space accomplishments. Then I asked, "What is MIKE CRANE doing?" I was quite surprised when they said Mike is a deep sea diver, who hunts for Chris' lost missiles. Pat suggested we tune in television. When the dulcet tones of the Master of Ceremonies began, we knew why. It was DENNIS GATES! His program is very popular--especially with women. He tells them the right styles, how to reduce, and how to beautify themselves. A panel show was on next, and one of the attractive panelists was SANDRA GRANDSTAFF. She took the opportunity to plug her new play on Broadway.

The next morning Pat and I went to the beauty salon. Pat's personal hairdresser is ALICE BRUCE. Alice is still the same sweet, friendly person. Since I was going to return home in a few days, being a woman, I decided to go shopping. Walking down Broadway, I came to a very exclusive dress shop called "Lona's." Entering, I was greeted by LONA BRUCE, a very fashionable woman. Lona led me into the lounge where she was showing dresses to another woman. The woman turned out to be the former SANDRA YOUNG, and with her were her beautiful, red-haired grandchildren. Lona and Sandra told me that LaMar Graham is still sitting on the bench, not as a student manager, but as the coach of the world famous "Space Trotters."

After a wonderful vacation, I returned home to the great city, Lucerne, feeling refreshed and deeply touched to think that the members of this wonderful class have become leading citizens of the United States of America.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

I, Alice Bruce, do bequeath my talkativeness to Pat Scheetz, so he won't be so bashful, my school books to Mary Barrett for her remaining year in school; and my pencil stubs and notebook to my sister, who has eight remaining years in school.

I, Lona Bruce, do bequeath my ability to make passing grades to any basketball player who needs it, my bashfulness to the freshman boys, and my desk by the register to any future senior who gets cold feet.

I, Rick Burrough, do bequeath my honorary position as judge of the supreme senior class to Bill Marshall, since Bill has the dignified look and strong right arm to enforce his laws.

I, Chris Christiansen, do bequeath my knowledge of Unidentified Flying Objects and related subjects to the school, in hopes that it will further the knowledge of Lucerne High; my power of hypnosis to Sam Sharp, so that he can dominate Mr. Moss; my Chevrolet to the future Drivers' Training Course.

I, Michael Crane, do bequeath to Bill Marshall my ability to control my temper; to Jerry Kelley the gold plate on my tooth which he so dearly loves; and to my brother, Steve, Jr., passing grades and good luck in his remaining school years.

I, Dennis Gates, do bequeath to Mike Jones my ability to pay attention to something besides girls; to Tim Marshall my height to enable him to be an All-American; and to Joe Waymire my position on the varsity baseball and basketball squads.

I, Pat Gilman, do bequeath my ability to take notes in Government to my brother Stan, positive he won't use it anyway; to Ron my books, knowing he will make better grades than I; my ability to sing, to the three very quiet freshman girls in the last row in Chorus.

I, LaMar Graham, will my driving ability to Bob Gerlach, so that he may scare people who ride with him as I scare him. I will my ability to shave to Douglas Myers, so he won't get his dad's electric razor plugged up with down.

I, Sandra Grandstaff, bequeath my nicknames (Squirt, Shortie, etc.) to anyone tall enough to do them justice; and to my sister Karen all the candy and gum wrappers occupying my desk (put there by Jim Robinson) to keep her desk in a perfect mess.

I, Arthur Newell, do hereby bequeath my ability to break my wrist to anyone wishing to have a legitimate excuse for not doing his school work and my seat in the assembly, which always seems to be in direct line with the sun, to Tom Hilkert, so that he may enjoy an unlimited supply of Vitamin D., thus getting the added strength he will need to survive his senior year.

I, Larry Rains, do bequeath my ability to get along with Mrs. Pickle to Bob Swank, so he, too, may have peaceful study halls, and my ability to study in the same study hall to Joe Waymire.

I, Jim Robinson, do bequeath my great ability as a trackman to Karen Grandstaff, so she can outrun most of the boys who are chasing her. I leave my abilities as a chorus member to Janice Rinehart; and to Tim Marshall my height.

I, William Thomas Weaver, will my knowledge of bookkeeping to the future bookkeeping classes and my ability to get along with the teachers to the freshman and sophomore boys.

I, Sandra Young, do bequeath to Janice Rinehart my ability to play girls' softball at Grass Creek; to Donna Young my ability to keep my desk in a neat, orderly manner; to Mick Scheetz my desk in the assembly when he becomes a senior; and to anyone who may find herself in the same position the ability to wait for that certain person, whether in the Army, Navy, Airforce, or Marines.

SCHOOL CALENDAR

- Aug. 21 School begins.
- Oct. 1 Everyone is saying "Peaches"--why? Individual pictures are being taken. Lucerne won County Baseball Championship at Tipton Township!
- 8 4-H party. Everyone has a good time.
- 10 My, but it is quiet around the school! Where are the seniors? Oh, yes, Burgman is taking their pictures today. We thought they looked awfully dressed up when they came to school!
- 17-18 "Here Comes Charlie" shows how talented the seniors are!
- 21 Do we look tired? Those scholarship tests are tough!
- 23-24 Teachers' Institute. No school.
- 29 Such a turmoil! Well, the Hallowe'en Festival only comes once a year. We'll really be cleaning up confetti tomorrow!
- Nov. 4 Election Day. No school.
- 7 Game at Royal Center. WE WON!! 45-44.
- 13 We all get a glimpse of the future at the Guidance Day program at Washington Township.
- 19 Another dressed-up day. Group pictures taken.
- 25 We put our best foot forward--visiting principals and trustees.
- 26 P.T.A. Dance.
- 27-28 Thanksgiving vacation.
- Dec. 12-13 Four-way tourney.
